A Message from Our Chairs...

Greetings to all Geography of Food and Agriculture Specialty Group (GFASG) members, new and old!! We are very excited to present our Spring 2019 newsletter with highlights from our members’ achievements and an overview of the many events and activities to look forward to at our upcoming American Association of Geographers’ meeting in Washington D.C. We also share some of the work of our specialty group over the past year, including organization of a pre-conference and plenary panel on food justice and food sovereignty, AAG Enrichment Fund awards, and Graduate Student Research Award recipients.

First, we want to acknowledge the GFASG Board Members’ contributions towards our ongoing activities and preparation for the upcoming Washington D.C. AAG meeting. A special thanks to Board Members finishing their terms, Samara Brock (Student at Large), Xiang ‘Peter’ Chen (Faculty at Large), and Levi Van Sant (Newsletter Coordinator). We also appreciate the ongoing contributions from existing board members Charles Levkoe (Chair), Colleen Hammelman (Vice-Chair), Joshua Sbicca (Faculty Board Member at Large), Taro Futamura (Website Coordinator), Kristen Lowitt (Secretary-Treasurer), and Jessica Gilbert (Student Board Member at Large). Our 2019 election for new Board Members ends on March 22 and our new Executive will be confirmed at our business meeting in Washington D.C.

If you’re interested in serving on the GFASG Executive, we will be seeking nominations for open seats a few months before the 2020 Meeting in Denver. There are many ways to contribute to the GFASG, even if you are not on the Executive. Every year, we need volunteers to help organize field trips, panels, and the annual mixer. If you have any thoughts on how the GFASG can best serve food systems geographers, please come to our Business Meeting, introduce yourself to one of us at the conference or email us any time. All members are encouraged to attend our annual GFASG business meeting in Washington D.C.. It will be held on Thursday April 4, from 6:50 PM-7:50 PM in Madison A, Marriott, Mezzanine Level.

There are several other great opportunities to connect with members of the GFASG at the upcoming Annual Meeting in Washington DC. Please plan to attend our GFASG Mixer to network and socialize. The Mixer will be on Thursday, April 4th, 8-10pm (following our business meeting) at Southern Hospitality (1815 Adams Mill Rd NW). Come to the business meeting to get complimentary drink tickets for the mixer!

This year the GFASG will be sponsoring over 50 sessions at the AAG Annual Meeting in Washington D.C. along with a pre-conference on “RADICAL FOOD GEOGRAPHIES: Connecting Knowledges, Cultivating Practices, (re)Imagining Governance” and special panel plenary titled “Coalition building between food sovereignty and urban food justice advocates in pursuit of more just and sustainable food systems. Speakers include Ricardo Salvador, Union of Concerned Scientists; Beverly Wheeler, DC Hunger Solutions; Xavier Brown, Soilful City; and Jahi Chappell, Coventry University. Please join us for this special session on Thursday, April 4, 1:10-2:50pm in the Governor’s Room, Omni Hotel, Lobby Level.

To support practitioners to participate in the special GFASG Coalition Building session and the AAG meeting in Washington D.C., we received four AAG Enrichment Fund awards. These grants supported registration and travel expenses for Ricardo Salvador (Union of Concerned Scientists), Beverly Wheeler (DC Hunger Solutions), Xavier Brown (Soilful City), and Hank Harrera (Center for Popular Research, Education, & Policy). We look forward to welcoming these folks into our GFASG community. And, a special thanks to the AAG for their support!

For this year’s student awards, we designated two separate prizes, one for a masters’ level student and one for a PhD level student. It was a competitive process, as we received XX proposals. The student research award committee has selected Antonio Roman-Alcalá for an honorable mention, Tamar Law for a masters’ award, and Eden Kinkaid for the PhD award. Details on each project will be available on the GFASG website and at our AAG business meeting. Congratulations to our awardees!

As of March 2019, the GFASG has just under 500 members, which highlights the growing vibrancy and importance of food systems geography. Your member dues help us pay for field trips, sponsored events and speakers, student awards, and our annual mixer. We look forward to meeting more of you at the conference and collaborating on new and exciting projects in the year to come!

Highlighting Members' Achievements

During the past year, our GFASG members have made some impressive achievements in research, teaching and community service. Below is a tasty sample:

Garrett Grady-Lovelace won the prestigious 2018 Campus Compact Mid-Atlantic's Alan G. Penczek Service-Learning Faculty Award in the private institution category.

Julie Guthman (PI, UCSC), Madeleine Fairbairn (Co-PI, UCSC), Kathryn De Master (Co-PI, UC Berkeley), and Charlotte Bilttekoff (Co-PI, UC Davis) received a National Science Foundation standard grant: "Investigating the 'grand challenge' solutions of agro-food tech." – $492,487

Laura-Anne Minkoff-Zern also received a grant from the Syracuse University Lerner Center Faculty Fellows Program in Population Health and Health Promotion. Her project is titled: "Impact of Gardening on Refugee Mental Health, Community Building, and Economic Well-being in Central New York."

Laura-Anne was also a featured guest speaker on the nationally-syndicated radio show and podcast, "Against the Grain," on the topic of "Food Activism and Farmworkers," as well as on The Rootstock Radio podcast, on the topic of "The New American Farmer: Immigration, Race, and the Struggle for Sustainability."

Kristin Reynolds recently began a new collaboration with East New York Farms!, a long-standing urban agriculture project of the community development corporation United Community Centers, Inc., Brooklyn, NY. Working closely with program staff and additional collaborators in 2019, the collaboration includes participatory evaluation of the long-term impacts of their youth education project.

Congratulations to all of our members!

GFASG Food Justice Scholar-Activist/Activist-Scholar Community of Practice: Highlights from 2018, and Looking Forward, by Kristin Reynolds

The Food Justice Scholar-Activism/Activist Scholarship (FJSAAS) community of practice is a working group within the Geographies of Food and Agriculture Specialty Group. As a community of practice, we are focused on:

- the meaning and scalability of “food justice” (in urban and rural spaces), as both a paradigm and material goal;
- productive questioning of the dichotomy between activist and scholar;
- recognition of experience-based food systems expertise in a variety of settings (e.g., community; academia;
- policy making);
- and the potential roles of academics/academic work in advancing food justice.

These topics are of direct and historical relevance to the field of geography, both theoretically and practically.

As a community of practice, our intent is to support collaboration among a broad diversity of actors in the food system, through the lens of geography and other fields, and help to strengthen the integrity of both food justice scholarship and activism. A couple of recent and current projects exemplify our work:

- In 2018, several members, along with other scholars and activists, published a special issue on food justice scholar-activism in the open-access journal *ACME: An International Journal for Critical Geographies*. (Vol. 17, No. 4, 2018, Guest editors Reynolds, Block, and Bradley.)
- FJSAAS is collaborating to co-host the Radical Food Geographies workshop on April 2, 2019. (See details in this newsletter and online here: <https://gfasg.wordpress.com/events/> )

Join us!

The FJSAAS community of practice is open to all. We meet regularly through video and conference calls, and in person at the American Association of Geographers annual meetings.

The 2019 in-person FJSAAS meeting will take place in conjunction with a panel session on Thursday, April 4 from 5-6:40 pm (immediately before the GFASG business meeting) in the Governor's Room, Omni Hotel, Lobby Level. The session is also part of the conference theme: Geographies of Human Rights: The Right to Benefit from Scientific Progress. We hope to see many of you in D.C.!
